Accounting

TT Profession

Why is accounting important?

Accounting is not only important for statutory compliance, but also important to provide financial information for management in decision making.

Good accounting is fundamental criteria to provide quality financial information for management in order to make the right decision.

We need to maintain an efficient and effective accounting system in order to generate management financial information timely.

What can we do?

Business combination and Consolidation

With globalisation for SME, business combination and consolidation are crucial areas to look into it.

We can help you on the accounting for business combination such as purchase price allocation exercise under acquisition.

We have developed an consolidation tool to help you to prepare the group financial information in an efficient manner.

What else can we do?

Accounting for compliance with statutory requirements

The financial reporting standards are getting sophisticated than ever before. We can help you to prepare the accounts in compliance with the relevant accounting standards, such as:

- Goodwill impairment assessment
- Accounting for redeemable convertible preference share
- Employee share option scheme
- Impairment assessment in non-financial assets
- Other accounting compliance

What do we have?

We have an accounting system which can help you in:

- Financial control
- Operations control
- Business intelligence
- Mobility

This accounting system is far more economy for SME.

The data in the system can be transformed for data analytics efficiently.

We also have a consolidation framework to prepare consolidated financial information in an efficient manner.
